The Tripoint is our design solution for a three-point buckling system. The female has a connecting loop design to attach to a crotch strap. The two males are designed with strap adjusters to connect to the waist belts. The strap-adjusting bar on each male has a protective "anti-slip" finish which protects the webbing from completely slipping off the buckle. The unique central push button simultaneously disengages both male buckles when pushed, offering tremendous convenience when looking to release your child.

Pop Lock Series

Pop-Lock Cord Lock

We can only describe this as a side release cord lock. The parts come preloaded with the hole in alignment, which makes it significantly easier for factory operators to install the cord locks onto garments, sleeping bags or backpacks. By simply squeezing the sides after the cord has passed through the holes, the locking mechanism, springs up, pinching the cord. The all-stainless-steel spring offers a 30% stronger lock than other competitive versions and although the Pop-Lock® is compact in size, it affords a larger opening to accommodate larger cords.

LAN-U-LOKS® System

While primarily developed for the premium Products and Promotions trade, as components used in lanyard systems, our highly modular system has the potential for a multitude of applications. We have incorporated our patented "clamping system" for easy installation onto the lanyard, cord, or webbing, which eliminates the need for sewing. Due to the modular componentry, it is literally a "snap" to add either a key ring holder, a swivel snaphook or a combo loop that can accept a badge pin, or a "bulldog" clip. We offer a "fixed" unit and a "quick disconnect" system based on our Side Squeeze® buckles.

MOD-U-LUX® Sternum Strap

An ideal system combines simplicity with modularity. We have incorporated a "quick change" snap-in receptacle into a Sternum Strap Adjuster that can receive a swiveling D-ring, a light holder, or a hydration tube holder. The hexagonal mount allows rotation to 8 different fixed positions. The slotted outside bars allow easy mounting to a base unit along the shoulder harness. The base unit has 2 different web widths to accommodate either 1-inch or 3/4-inch webbing.

Quik Clamp Suspender Divider

Our open "Clam Shell" design is the quickest way of applying a Strap Divider to Suspenders. Ultra thin and available with a large area to add logos on the tool. Utilizing strap dividers offers a major advantage over sewing permanently the crisscross. The Quik Clamp Suspender Divider allows the webbing to float with a certain degree of friction, which permits the crisscross to center freely relative to the shoulder width of the specific person using the product.

Buddy-Lok® Pouch Attachment System

One of the most requested products we have been asked to develop is a modular pouch attachment system that is simple to use. The Buddy-Lok® system is simple, easy to use and has a cross-functional use as a simple lash tab. Ideal for transferring water bottle holders from the waist belt of a backpack to the waist belt of the removable lid/fanny pack.

Double Buddy-Lok® System

For larger pouches, we developed the Double Buddy-Lok® system, which offers two (2) fixation points for stability. The interesting aspect of this design is the actual lash tab is used as a standard lash tab, which is sewn directly to the backpack and also can be converted to a double-swiveling bayonet and paddle component via an easy snap together design.

Quik Disconnect Suspenders Clips

We have developed a low profile sew-able stud that serves as an attachment point for a unique easy-to-assemble suspender clip. Once installed, the clips will break away at about 10 lbs., which offers the added feature of providing a safety in case suspenders get caught into machinery. Because the clip swivels in relation to the sew-able stud, the clip will naturally swivel to match the appropriate angle of the criss cross of the suspender, preventing any "bunching" on the fabric or elastic.

Quad Release System

Available Colors

Quad Release

The Quad Release provides a competitively priced system which adds the ability to quickly release and rapidly reassembled almost any tactical carrier. This system provides first responders / medics instant access to the soldier's / officer's chest or back without having to move them. The trigger is typically located directly below the operator's chin and requires very little effort in a short pull to actuate four buckles separating the front and back panels of the carrier. Any of the four buckles can also be manipulated manually and all components of the system are field repairable.

Release System

Back Release

The Back-Trigger Release provides a competitively priced system which adds the ability to quickly release up to five points and rapidly reassembled almost any tactical carrier. This system provides first responders / medics instant access to the soldiers / officer's chest or back without having to move them. The trigger is typically located in the back panel and the trigger cable can be secured on either shoulder and requires very little effort in a short pull to actuate five buckles separating the front and back panels of the carrier. Any of the five buckles can also be manipulated manually and all components of the system are field repairable.

Evil Twin Release

The Evil Twin Release provides a competitively priced system which adds the ability to quickly release two points and rapidly reassembled almost any tactical carrier. This system provides first responders / medics instant access to the soldier's / officer's chest or back without having to move them. The trigger is typically located on the operator shoulder or waist and requires very little effort in a short pull to actuate two buckles separating one side of the carriers front and back panel. Any of the buckles can also be manipulated manually and all components of the system are field repairable.

"J" Hooks

The "J" HOOK is a unique way to attach shock cord or paracord to MOLLY. The hook is designed to engage a standard bar tack and will maintain it's position regardless of any tension on the cord. The "J" HOOK can be removed or repositioned easily and under extreme load will snap free without breaking. This item allows for interchangeable and replaceable cordage on magazine pouches and other accessories. These are available in black and all of our standard military colors. Another great idea from National Molding in our continued effort to "Go Beyond the Buckle".

Elasto-Lok® Ice Axle Buckle

This design offers a stable, easy system which attaches to the "daisy chain" webbing sewn on the back of a pack. The adjustable bungee cord system gives you substantial flexibility to handle a variety of shaft sizes. The unique "lever-latching" system can be locked or disengaged with one hand.

Materials

Materials

Dealing with material suppliers as frequently as we do, we often wish that a set material could be specified as being the ideal candidate for certain applications. Unfortunately, what is considered "ideal" is often elusive. Consequently, we cannot over emphasize the need for our customers to thoroughly test the varieties we have to offer, in the specific application for which they have intended the product to be used.

Acetal

You cannot beat this material for its stiffness and tensile strength. People prefer the robust, sturdy feel inside release buckles. Acetal's strength lies in its ability to resist moisture from absorption, and it performs very well under freezing or arid conditions. One note of caution: acetal's stiffness can make it susceptible to impact.

Nylon

Nylon offers great impact resistance under normal operating conditions. It is light, flame retardant, and has a softer feel for side release buckles. When used on a typical single piece product it is not that unusual to obtain a 20%-30% increase in tensile strength over acetal. The kicker, of course, is that nylon absorbs water and under freezing conditions can become brittle. We mold Dupont and Solutia's Nylons.
